

LAWBREAKERS LAUGH TO SCORN

Methodist Minister Declares Mayor in Hopelessly Fatuous Condition.

THE GOVERNMENT SPOTTERS

War Commenced in Norfolk on the Social Clubs—Two Bodies Floating.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., April 1.—In a spirited address on the subject of the suppression of vice in Portsmouth, Rev. J. K. Joliff, of the Methodist Church, referring to Mayor Baird's statement that Portsmouth is one of the best governed cities on the Atlantic coast, declared that the Mayor is in a hopelessly fatuous condition. He declared that the authorities do not enforce the laws and said: "In the miserable trough of technicalities and in the labyrinth of a law seemingly constructed not for administration but for evasion, the law breakers escape and laugh to scorn the moral element of the city."

I repeat it, what we need here is a civic league, non-partisan and non-political in its character, which will see that the law is enforced, and that the wrongdoers are brought to just and proper punishment for their crimes."

SPOTTERS.

The marine men here declare that the government has spotters at work here to detect violations of the United States laws governing steam vessels. That is an indication the marines declare, that the government is not relying on the coast guard in its inspection service performed by the admirals who visit the various ports for that purpose. These spotters are experts and they are active here now, although they have not disclosed their identity.

The ferry steamerboat Louise, offered for sale here to-day was bought by her owner, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, at $5,000. She used to ply between Norfolk and Newport News. She was repaired in Baltimore several years ago at a cost of $25,000.

Chief of Police Boush began an opposition to the social clubs of Norfolk to-day by filing information with the clerk of the Corporation Court that many of them are lawless nuisances, maintained for the purpose of selling liquor on Sunday, when the licensed bar-rooms are closed and thereby affording an opportunity for the assembling of lawless and dangerous persons.

The licensees are granted for one year from May 1st and therefore the applications are made before the judge of the Corporation Court during the April term. Chief of Police Boush has the documentary evidence against these clubs, and he will on Saturday make a formal protest that the licensees of eleven of them be not renewed.

TWO BODIES FOUND FLOATING.

The bodies of two men were found floating in the river yesterday morning. One of the bodies, which was found in the Southern Branch of the navy-yard, proved to be that of a United States marine named Keller, who disappeared from the yard on February 17th and the other is supposed to be that of Captain Tom Brown, a Gloucester county oysterman, who lost his life on the Portsmouth side of the river three months ago.

Captain Brown came here in a sloop loaded with oysters. He reached for his hat, which was blown off, fell overboard and drowned. The body was not recovered. The body was buried at the expense of Portsmouth, and it is said that which Captain Brown had on his person must have been buried with the unsearched body. The body was in such a bad condition that the undertaker buried it immediately. The body of the marine was buried at the Naval Hospital. He is supposed to have returned from shore leave drunk, and to have fallen in the river in that helpless condition.

BANQUET OF BOOKS.

The members of the Bar Association of Norfolk and Portsmouth are not deterred whether to have a banquet at the annual meeting or to use $30 for the purchase of books for the law library which is stored in handsome rooms in the Federal Court building.

Federal Judge Waddill has signed an order in the case of Campe against the Dismal Swamp Canal and Water Company, by which it is authorized that a copy be made of a relief map of the Dismal Swamp section of Virginia and North Carolina, now on file in the office of the chief of the army engineering corps in Washington, the map to be used in showing elevations, for the purpose of ascertaining to what extent, if any, the enlarging of the old Dismal Swamp Canal by the present owners has resulted in the draining of the lake of the Dismal Swamp owned by A. B. Campe, of Florida, the plaintiff in this case.

Manassas Will be Dry.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) MANASSAS, VA., April 1.—At a called meeting of the town council held to-night, applications of saloonkeepers for recommitment to the Circuit Court for liquor license were considered. The Council refused, by a vote of 7 to 4, to recommend, and Manassas will have no licensed bar after May 1.

TWO KILLED IN ONE DAY IN PULASKI COUNTY

Mrs. Lyons Shoots an Intruder Through the Head.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) PULASKI, VA., April 3.—One murder and one case of justifiable manslaughter is the record of Pulaski for twenty-four hours. Cloyd Hale, a notorious negro, shot and killed an unknown white man at 7 o'clock Saturday night, and Mrs. John Lyons shot and instantly killed John Norman about 10 o'clock Saturday night. The first case was deliberate and cold blooded murder. Cloyd Hale passed along the road between Pulaski and Dora Furnace, saw the umbrella mender and his partner; Hale picked up a coat and bag belonging to one of the men, and started off with it, and when the umbrella mender told him to put it down, Hale turned and fired at him with a shotgun, shooting him through the side from the effects of which he died in about two hours. Hale was captured at 11 o'clock Sunday night, and is now in jail here.

The other killing occurred just below Dora Furnace, one of the company houses. John Norman and a man named Williams went to Lyons's house, and commenced cursing and throwing chairs and things over the door, and when Lyons told him to quit, he shoved him out of the door, and said that he was going to cut Mrs. Lyons's damned throat, and started at a 38-calibre pistol lying on a stand and fired one shot at Norman, shooting him in the left temple. She was so close to him when she fired that the powder burned his face, death being instantaneous. The preliminary trial took place to-day and the woman was cleared.

From the evidence it was plainly a case of shooting in self-defense. C. M. Sifford, deputy marshal, went on a raid Saturday and captured a still and one moonshiner, whom he caught in the act of filling the still. He was brought to Pulaski and lodged in jail to await trial before the United States commissioner on Thursday.

NEW ELECTRIC LINE.

Seaboard Traction Co. Elect Officers and Arrange to Build.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) SUFFOLK, VA., April 3.—The stockholders of the Seaboard Traction Company, which will run a trolley from Norfolk to Suffolk and Smithfield, and possibly to Richmond, met today in Suffolk and elected the following officers: L. R. Britt, president; William H. Robinson and George L. Barton, vice-presidents; George H. Lewis, general manager; W. D. Southall, treasurer; Lee Britt, secretary.

An agreement has been entered into with a construction company to begin road building. The company will start operations at three points simultaneously, Norfolk, Suffolk and Smithfield. They expect to have running lines within eight months. Counting the Tidewater road, whose completion is practically assured, the Seaboard Traction Company line will make Suffolk's seventh road.

Murder at Upperville.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) UPPERVILLE, VA., April 3.—While returning home from a festival held at the Colored Baptist Church here yesterday, some unknown person shot and killed James Nickens, colored, Will Porter, another negro, was also shot, but not seriously. A brandy can is located near the church.

TRIPLE TRAGEDY IN ALBEMARLE

The Coroner's Jury Develops Dissension Between Man and Wife.

HUSBAND MAY BE ARRESTED

His Stepson Was the Principal Witness at Coroner's Inquest.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 3.—The remains of Mrs. W. J. Thompson and her two children, aged two and five years, which were collected from the ruins of their burned home, were buried at noon yesterday at Antioch, Fluvanna county, twelve miles from Shadwell. The total of the three bodies recovered, which was very little, was placed in one coffin. All of the heads were missing, but the woman's body was practically intact.

The coroner's inquest, held Saturday, resulted in little more than the information above given and the additional fact that the house must have been burned late at night. It is understood that the inquest will be resumed and suspicious circumstances inquired into. Many rumors indicating a belief in murder are afloat in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Thompson was the widow of a cousin of her last husband, and by her first husband was the mother of a son, now some seventeen years of age. It is said that the surviving Thompson and his wife did not get on together. He was not at home the night of the fire.

REMOTE VALLEY.

The five-room building in which Mrs. Thompson and her children were burned is situated in a remote valley at the foot of a mountain, and was so surrounded by hills that its burning at a late hour at night would not have attracted attention.

Mrs. Thompson's said to have been reared in Richmond, about forty years of age and of good appearance. At the coroner's inquest, held Saturday at noon, no decision was reached. Among the witnesses was the son of the dead woman, who testified that his step-father had not been living with his mother for several months; that he had left her, and while he came to her home sometimes, always treated her cruelly.

MAN AND WIFE FOUGHT.

The boy stated that Mr. Thompson saw his family last on Wednesday of last week, and at that time the man and wife, who was a frail woman, fought each other like cats and dogs. Before the man returned to his work, one and one-half miles distant, he told his wife he intended to "fix" her.

The young man who gave this evidence was at the time of the tragedy working on the farm of Mr. I. B. Priddy, two miles from his mother's home. He did not know of the mishap until late Saturday morning.

The news was conveyed by Mail Carrier Robert Thompson, the first to arrive after the house was in ashes. A search of the debris later disclosed the fact that the head of Mrs. Thompson was found some distance from the body. This fact, together with the husband's threats, suggested the people of the community to suspect Mr. Thompson of the crime. He said to-day that his arrest will follow.

A RELIABLE MAN.

Mr. C. E. Hughes, on whose place Thompson has been living, says he is a reliable man. Mr. J. W. Everett, for whom Thompson was working when the burning occurred, says that as far as he knows Thompson did not leave the place on the night of the tragedy. Thompson seems much worried and frequently gives way to his grief. He is said to be a typical mountaineer.

UNKNOWN KILLED.

Body Torn to Pieces by Southern Train at Amherst.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) AMHERST, VA., April 3.—The body of a young white man, horribly torn to pieces, was found on the Southern Railway side track, about 25 yards north of the depot here yesterday morning. In the pocket of his trousers, which had been wrecked, was found a pocketbook, containing 75 cents and a receipt from C. W. Hatcher and Company, of Atlanta, Ga., to John Wallace. There was nothing else about his person, by which he could be identified.

He was not more than 17 or 18 years of age, nice looking and fairly well dressed. It is supposed that he was beating his way on the second section of Southern Railway, and that he was killed by the train which was the only train on the side track during the night.

About 7 o'clock Sunday morning two tramps walked into the office of Mr. Garber, the night operator at Amherst, and told him that a dead man was out there and that they had found him. They did not know the man and had stumbled upon his body in passing through the yard. After staying a while the two tramps left, not waiting for the coroner's inquest.

Justice Edgar Whitehead held an inquest over the dead man. The verdict was that the man was killed by a Southern Railway train. The body was sent to Hatcher and Company, and also to the chief of police at Atlanta. The remains were buried on the county farm by the county authorities Sunday. Parts of his body were scattered along the track, some of the bones being almost unrecognizable. He was, however, was not much mutilated.

SNOW STILL LINGERS IN VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS

Banked in Sheltered Places With Wild Flowers Around It.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) SHAWSVILLE, VA., April 3.—These balmy days, when the heat is already oppressive in the cities, few of your readers can imagine that snow still covers the ground in portions of the State, yet it is true. During the unprecedented sleet of February the coarse snow rolled down the steep northern exposures until it attained great depth at the base of the mountains, and on the road leading from this place to Alleghany and Crickets Springs, a road familiar to many of your spring-school readers. Snow can be seen from one to six feet deep, while almost in it wild flowers are in blossom.

This reminds one of the snow capped peaks of the South and West, with conditions reversed.

RIXEYS SUE STEVENS.

A Hung Jury in a Suit That Is a Forerunner of Others.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WARRENTON, VA., April 3.—A suit to recover an over-draw on the "Farmers and Merchants Bank," of Culpeper, by Stevens and Duckett, of this county, came up at this term of the Circuit Court and resulted in a hung jury. This case is really the forerunner of the two $20,000 suits instituted by Congressman Rixey and his brother, C. J. Rixey, for defamation of character, against C. A. Moore, a multi-millionaire, of New York.

The suit just ended was really against Stevens, his partner, Duckett, appearing as a witness for Rixey.

Duckett alleges a partnership with Stevens and this Stevens denies the over-draw for money paid out by the Farmers and Merchants bank on Duckett's checks for the expenses necessary for the maintenance of the mining property.

A little unpleasantness occurred in the courtroom during the afternoon session when the question of alleged destruction of some vouchers arose. Stevens, visibly angry, arose from his chair on the stand, denounced Lawyer Bravner, the attorney, bending towards the rail, replied with equal vehemence, when Judge Nichols put an end to the scene.

GAME CALLED OFF.

William and Mary Held Randolph-Macon Had Illegal Players

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WILLIAMSBURG, VA., April 3.—The game scheduled to take place here to-day between Randolph-Macon and William and Mary was cancelled. The Randolph-Macon team brought Mills, Trevillian and Cross, who have been doing well in the past in any intercollegiate game by an act of the Athletic Committee of this division, on account of having played professional ball.

In spite of this fact the Randolph-Macon team refused to play without these men were on the team. As William and Mary held their game, the game cannot legally be played in contests between colleges in the association, the William and Mary team being called to play and the game was called off.

GEN. COX OPPOSES THE INSCRIPTION

Will Not Attend Unless Offensive Lines Are Eliminated.

HE DEPLORES MOVEMENT

State Sunday School Convention and Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows to Meet.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) RALEIGH, N. C., April 3.—Major F. F. Dixon, State auditor, received a letter to-day from General W. R. Cox, of Edgecombe, endorsing his protest against the inscription on the monument to be unveiled on Appomattox battlefield April 10th, and stating that he has notified Major H. A. London, chairman of the North Carolina Appomattox Commission, that he will not attend the unveiling ceremony unless the inscription offensive to veterans of Virginia and other States is eliminated. General Cox is on the programme for one of the principal addresses, and it was by his brigade that the last fire was fired on the Appomattox battlefield.

Colonel James T. Morehead, of Greensboro, writes Major Dixon, asking if it is too late to change the "legend" on the monument so it will simply say that it marks the spot where the last gun was fired, and that by a North Carolina brigade.

The portion of the inscription that is raising such a contention reads thus: "The last battle was fought here on April 9th, 1865, at Appomattox, Virginia." "First at Bethel, Farthest to the Front At Gettysburg and Chickamauga, Last at Appomattox."

Major Dixon's position, as declared in a recent interview, is that the monument at Appomattox should not have on it an inscription which indicates the services of North Carolina at Bethel, Gettysburg and Chickamauga, especially in view of the fact that we are just out of a heated controversy, and that he is opposed to an inscription that would offend in any way Confederate soldiers of other States on a monument by North Carolina.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The North Carolina State Sunday School Convention convenes in this city to-morrow night, and continues in session three days. The address of welcome will be delivered by State Auditor B. F. Dixon, and Governor Glenn will deliver an address on "The Dawn of a New Day."

The North Carolina Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows will meet in annual session in this city May 9th, and Grand Secretary B. H. Woodell, of this city, in carrying up his record for his annual report, finds that there are 188 lodges in the State, fifteen more than last year, the membership being 10,700, against 9,500 last year.

He Struck the Wrong Man.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) SPENCER, N. C., April 3.—Dr. J. W. Carlton, a prominent dentist and member of the Board of Aldermen of this city, was held up by a would-be robber at the passenger station shortly after midnight Sunday morning. While waiting for a north-bound passenger train, the stranger approached him where he was seated in the shadow of a building, and made what purported to be a friendly advance in an effort to rifle the pockets of his victim.

Upon being informed by Dr. Carlton that he was mistaken in his name, the robber, who had taken in the face of the Doctor, exclaiming that he guessed he had his right man and advising Dr. Carlton to get up and go, he refused to do so, but called a policeman. The bold marauder, however, made the escape before officers could reach the spot. He was well dressed, wearing a white vest, but there is no clue to his identity.

THE TIDEWATER ROAD.

Lunenburg and Mecklenburg Are Strong Rivals for the Road.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) MECKLENBURG, VA., April 3.—A great rivalry is going on between Lunenburg and Mecklenburg counties, to secure the Tidewater Railroad. The counties are working hard to secure the right of way for this line, as a donation to the company, and so far the committee has been successful in its county, with the exception of this end, where the people want pay for damages. By taking this route through Lunenburg it will open up an entire new country, with one of the richest farming sections in the State, and will run through a heavily timbered area. It will be a great boon to Mecklenburg, as it is about two miles shorter than the one through Lunenburg, but the one through Lunenburg is a better route, as it can be built for a less amount, on account of it being a better country, with a ridge a large portion of the way.

Corps of surveyors are located near Abilene, about ten miles southwest of this place, working this way, and it is the intention of the company to reach this place, going over now locating this route. Almost every citizen of this county is anxious to see this line laid out, and will do all in their power to have it come this way. From the route they have mapped out, it passes directly by this point, and the evidence that they will erect a union depot here with the Southern.

The bride, who is very pretty, was gown'd in white silk. No violation was made, but there was a gathering of the bride's friends. Mrs. Kidd is the daughter of Mrs. Bettie L. Bristow, the only daughter of Mrs. Bristow, who was a member of the recent Constitutional Convention. Mr. Kidd is a prosperous contractor and builder.
